Before you file

Have this information handy, to make the process go smoothly.

For leave of absence claims, you will need:

- Your supervisor's name and telephone number
- The last day you worked and the first day you were absent due to your claim event
- The date you expect to return to work (if you know), or the actual date if you have already returned to work

For disability claims, you will need:

- Your health care provider's name, address, fax and telephone number
- The date you were injured or your illness began
- The dates of your visits with your health care provider for this condition, including:
 - Your first visit
 - Your most recent visit
 - Your next scheduled visit
- Any work restrictions or limitations your health care provider has recommended.

We may require additional medical information to better understand your claim. But we can help you get the information we need throughout the process.

After you file

Check your claim status and manage your claim on the web or mobile app. If you need to talk to someone, give us a call.
